The Chancellor

William Brantly Aycock became Chancellor the University of North Carolina at Chapel H July 1, 1957.

Prior to becoming Chancellor he had been professor of law in the University, Acting De of the Law School in 1956, and a visiting profe sor of law at the University of Texas and t University of Virginia.

He is a native of Lucama, N. C., born Octob 26, 1915 and spent his boyhood in Selma, N. where his father, William Preston Aycock, was prominent attorney and judge of the recorde court. His mother still lives in Selma.

"Billy" Aycock attended the public schools Selma and was graduated from State College Raleigh in 1936. He was president of the stude body and a member of the Golden Chain, stude honorary society.

He entered the Graduate School at the Ur versity in Chapel Hill in the fall of 1936 a received a master's degree in political science 1937.

He taught history in the Greensboro Hi School in 1937-38, and later he became an admi istrator for the National Youth Administrati with headquarters in Raleigh.

In World War II he was called to duty as reserve officer in 1942, entering as a first lieute ant. He served overseas in the European Theat of Operations and was lieutenant commander charge of a combat battalion of the 87th Infant Division.

He was decorated with the Silver Star Med for bravery in action in Germany, and al received the Bronze Star and the Legion of Mer

After returning from Europe in 1945 he w separated from the Army and immediately ente ed the Law School at Chapel Hill. He was Edit of the Law Review and was graduated in Febr ary, 1948, with the J. D. Degree. Invited to becon a member of the Law faculty, he accepted.

His wife is the former Grace Mewmorn Snow Hill. She is an alumna of Woman's Colle of the University in Greensboro and of Dul University. They have two children, William Pre ton Aycock 2nd and Nancy Aycock.

William Brantley Aycock is a man of talent versatility.

The 41-year-old Chancellor of the Universi of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is regarded colleagues, students and neighbors as both scholar and administrator, possessing a combin tion of well-balanced qualities.

A man of great drive, business all the way, nevertheless is amiable, affable, and has a fi sense of humor which makes him a delightful pe son to know.

The Athletic Director

Charles P. (Chuck) Erickson has been Director Athletics at Carolina since June of 1952, succeeding Robert A. (Coach Bob) Fetzer, to whom he had been an assistant for a number of years previously.

As Assistant Director of Athletics, Erickson handled many of the details for Mr. Fetzer and built up a vast background of knowledge in such administration. He especially distinguished himself in scheduling high ranking football games, made possible by his popularity and wide connections.

A graduate of Carolina with a B.S. degree in engineering in 1931, he has been connected with athletics at the University in one way or another for more than 20 years.

A native of Oak Park, Ill., he came to Carolina as a football player under Coach Chuck Collins, the old Notre Damer, after attending the University of Wisconsin for one year.

Chuck was good at the game as a fleet halfback on a squad that was loaded with skilled backs. He also was a track man.

Following his graduation in 1931, he entered business for two years and then returned to Chapel Hill to work with the athletic department. He served as Assistant Graduate Manager of Athletics, engaged in field work as a fund raiser and also had a hitch of coaching and scouting.

After a tour with the Navy as a Lt. Commander, he moved into Mr. Fetzer's office.

As Director of Athletics, he heads a comprehensive athletic program and has made a distinguished record.

Erickson for many years has doubled as Carolina's golf coach and has been outstandingly successful. His teams won Southern Conference championships, both team and individual, in 1952 and 1953, and his golfers were runners-up in both team and indvidual play in the 1953 NCAA championships. His 1956 team won team and individual titles in the ACC tournament with record scores.

He turned out a national champion in Harvie Ward (1949), who later won the British Amateur and twice the U. S. Amateur. He is a former president of the National Golf Coaches Association.

Erickson's interest in golf was directly responsible for construction of the University's own fine 18-hole course and club house. He became a firm friend of Mr. A. E. Finley of Raleigh, whose contributions made these projects possible.

Erickson has been chairman of the important Atlantic Coast Conference television and bowl committees.

He is married to the former Mildred Wanell and they have a teen-age daughter, Susan.

The Head Coach

James Moore (Sunny Jim) Tatum, the Univer-ty of North Carolina head football coach, is a ant in his profession who has compiled one of e most remarkable all-time coaching records in e business.

In thirteen years, embracing employment at ree institutions, building from the bottom at ch assignment, he has turned out six bowl ams, won one national championship and pro-ced two undefeated, untied teams.

This will be his third year here, following an sence since 1942 when he worked one year as ead coach, launching his brilliant career. He ad his only losing season in 1956, but came back 1957 to produce a team which compiled a sur-rising 6-4 record and turned in upset wins over therwise undefeated Navy, traditional rival Duke, iami and Clemson.

He came back to his alma mater from the niversity of Maryland where he served nine ears as both head coach and athletic director. e found football at Maryland a shambles. With rganizational genius and precision methods, he uilt the Terps into a national power which won ne national championship in 1953 when Tatum as named "coach of the year."

Five of his Maryland teams played in bowls, inning two games, losing two, and tying one.

He was head coach for one year at Oklahoma efore going to Maryland and is credited with tarting the machinery which led to that school's henomenal reign in football. His 1946 Oklahoma eam won eight games while losing three. It beat . C. State, 34-14, in the Gator Bowl.

Tatum, a native of McColl, S. C., graduated at he University of North Carolina in 1935. Here he as a star catcher and All-Southern tackle, play-ng his football under Chuck Collins and Carl navely. His first coaching was as an assistant o Snavely at Cornell, where Snavely moved after atum's graduation.

He returned to North Carolina as director of reshman athletics, became head coach for one ear in 1942, then joined the Navy and learned he Split-T as an assistant to Don Faurot, the ystem's founder, at Iowa Pre-Flight. He was ead coach at Jacksonville Naval Air Station for ne season before being tapped for the Oklahoma ob, where Bud Wilkinson was his assistant.

His college record shows 94 wins, 31 defeats nd six ties.

A colorful, spectacular and articulate fellow, ne is a prodigious worker and superb organizer. He keeps long hours on his job. For recreation, ne likes golf best.

Although during the off-season he is away from ome many days of the year, he is a devoted family man. He is married to the former Edna Sumrell and they have three young childre daughters Becky and Reid, and son Jimmy.

Tatum is 45 years old.

HIGHEST AWARDS

The University of North Carolina press bo in Kenan Memorial Stadium has made a clea sweep in merit awards of the Football Writer Association of America.

In 1955 the Association awarded the Universit both of its certificates: for "its outstanding pre box working facilities" and "exceptional servic to the working press."

Once awarded, the citations stand permanentl unless rescinded for some reason.

KENAN STADIUM PRESS BOX

The press box in Kenan Memorial Stadium, home of versity of North Carolina football, is a highly functional bui modernly equipped for the work of writers, broadcasters photographers.

It is of compact, unique design, differing from the sprav structures in many stadia. It is of such construction tha elevator is required for the workmen, but it has an ele elevator for heavy equipment to be sent to the top level.

Entrance is on the ground level in which a washroom utility rooms are located. The press box proper is on the level, with seats for approximately eighty persons. Spac radio booths and the P.A. booth are located on the next l Photographers work on the covered level above that an the roof, with all stations on virtually the 50-yard line.

Our press box has been highly praised for its utility services, and the Football Writers Association of America awarded us both of its citations for facilities and service.

Outlook For 1958

The Tar Heels, in their second year unde Sunny Jim Tatum as head coach, began to mov in 1957.

They turned out a surprisingly fine record o 6-4. Their wins were over arch-rival Duke, other wise undefeated Navy, Clemson, South Carolina Miami and Wake Forest.

They lost, sometimes strangely and inexplic ably, to N. C. State, Maryland, Virginia an Tennessee.

This very fine team has suffered the loss o several key men, including the magnificent end Co-Captain Buddy Payne, center Jim Jones, half back Ron Marquette, tackle Stuart Pell, and full back Giles Gaca.

The Tar Heels of 1958 shape up as generall improved in the backfield, with more speed a halfback, more consistency at fullback and mor experience at quarterback. The line should b speedier, too, with more experience, althoug without a preponderence of depth.

Also, the most encouraging sign of all, th team seems to have lost its "defeatist attitude," having demonstrated great spirit and an engagin esprit de corps in spring practice.

Quarterbacking is in wonderful hands. Jac Cummings heads a remarkable crew of youn signal callers. Cummings superintended the Ta Heels' best wins last season. His understudies Nelson Lowe and sophomores Russ Hollers an Jack Clements, though inexperienced, all can rur pass and kick.

Emil DeCantis, Jim Schuler, Wade Smith an Daley Goff are veteran halfbacks of varying out standing qualities. Non-lettermen Danny Droz and sophomore Sonny Folckomer supplement th group as bright newcomers. Some excel o offense, some on defense, and chances are the will be "platooned" under the new generous sub stitution rule.

Don Coker, Ed Lipski and Bob Shupin ar three experienced fullbacks. Don Klochak, wh has returned after a hitch in service, should prov a strong addition to the fullback corps. He wa here in 1953 and 1954 when he was superb in som games but was inconsistent. He should be a mor matured Klochak.

Center Ronnie Koes and tackles Phil Blaze and Don Redding should anchor the starting lin All three are big, strong fellows, top notchers a their trades. Jim Davis, along with a brillian sophomore, Ross (Rip) Hawkins, are back of Koe at center and other lettermen tackles are Do Stallings and Ralph Steele.

Fred Swearingen, Paul Russell and Jack Line berger are the only lettermen guards, with Fre Mueller, a sophomore in eligibility, an impressiv newcomer. Mac Turlington and Don Kemper an Al Goldstein are lettermen ends, with sophomor

John Schroeder filling out the first four and holdover reserve Takey Crist not far behind.

The Tar Heels promise to use a wide open offense this year and are sure to put the ball in orbit as the result of first rate passers and receivers. Adherents are sure to have a lot of fun in 1958 regardless of the won and lost record the team will provide.

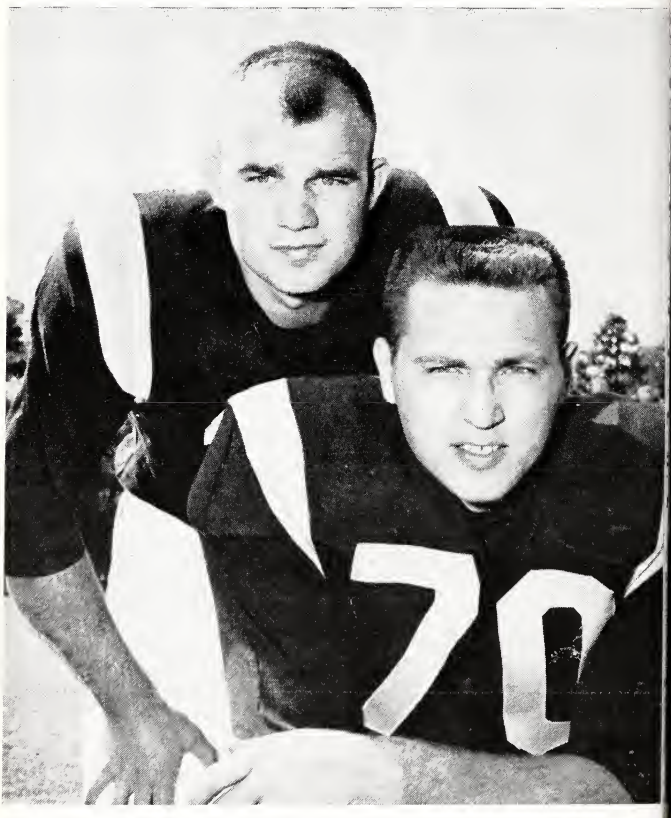
Quarterback Jack Cummings



Co-Captains Curtis Hathaway and Phil Blazer

All Star Check List

Based on their showing in spring practice, along with other facts, the following players seem most likely to be the outstanding stars on the 1958 University of North Carolina football team:

Jack Cummings, Quarterback: This worthy, a 180-pound junior from Lower Merion, Pa., heads a group of remarkable young quarterbacks, declared by Coach Jim Tatum to be the finest over-all he has ever coached. Tatum thinks Cummings, who made his mark near the end of last season and superintended the upset win against Duke, may prove to be the finest junior quarterback in the country.

Cummings is an excellent student and has the head on his shoulders to be a superb field general. He has fine poise and the reflexes to be a superior ball handler. He is imaginative and does not hesitate to call a daring game.

He was brilliant in passing last year. Although he was a starter during only the last five games of the season, he compiled the truly fine record of 39 completions in 76 attempts for 640 yards and four touchdowns. He was the busiest punter on the squad with 23 kicks for 883 yards and a 38.4 average.

Against Virginia he hung up a new school passing record with 10 completions in 19 attempts for 204 yards. Justice had 198 against Georgia in 1948 for the old mark.

Jack returns to school this fall as a bridegroom, having married during the summer.

Phil Blazer, Tackle: This 224-pounder from Whitaker, Pa., is an All-Atlantic Coast player who promises to have his finest season in closing out his career. Phil has consistently played top football here since being forced to lay out his sophomore year as the result of an injury. He has good speed, is able on both offense and defense, and is smart and on the ball all the time. He looked very good in the spring and attracted the attention of visiting coaches who pronounced him an outstanding candidate for All-America.

Don Redding, Tackle: In bespectacled, 217-pound Don Redding from Asheboro, the Tar Heels have another experienced senior tackle, who has always been an excellent player but showed his finest progress in the spring. He was so potent that many said he had prospects of being one of the team's finest tackles in history during his wind-up year. Don stands 6-3 and is superbly built. He has distinguished himself as a scholar throughout his career, winning various scholastic honors.

Don Kemper, End: A senior, rugged competitor, who broke in as an end last season after a fine year as guard in 1956, stamped himself this spring as definitely belonging on the all-star check list. Kemper is all-man at 197 pounds. He has developed fast as a pass receiver. Last year he caught six for 70 yards. He was out of the Blue-Whit game because of illness. He is married and a soli citizen on the campus.

Fred Swearingen: Guard: Fred is a soun guard, who has almost been a utility man, havin been switched around. He is an opportunist, wh has proven himself in recovering fumbles and als demonstrated alertness in other ways.

Ronnie Koes, Center: Ronnie is big, tough, an willing. Last year he came through, after som deviations, to prove himself a real anchor man i the line. He is a first rate backer-up and just a adept on offense. Big things are expected fror Koes this year. He is married and has a youn daughter, born since last season.

Emil DeCantis, Halfback: "Moe" was the team busiest ball carrier last year, rushing 80 times an gaining 269 net yards for a 3.3 average. He ha developed into an all-around potent halfback an should have a first rate season. He is fast an elusive, in addition to being able on defense.

NEWCOMERS

Top Sophomores, on the basis of work in th spring, were "RIP" Hawkins, who should be a All-America lineman before he leaves Carolina. . He is versatile with his talents and wound u spring practice as a hell-for-leather center; Fre Mueller, a brilliant prospect at guard, ineligibl last season; John Schroeder, a rangy end, also o the 1957 ineligible list and who, like Muelle played first string last spring; and Sonny Folckc mer, an end who was the big flash and splash i spring practice, a back who showed the potenti of being able to deliver the mail, in a hurry.

KENAN STADIUM

Kenan Memorial Stadium, home of Carolina football games, is considered one of the mo beautiful in the nation. It is located in a natur valley and is surrounded by pines. It was th gift of William Rand Kenan, Jr., a distinguishe and loyal son of the University, Class of 189 and constructed as a memorial to his mother. Th stadium, as originally built, seated 24,000. No it seats close to 45,000 with temporary bleacher The stadium was completed in 1927 and was ded cated in a game with Virginia, which the Tar Hee won by 14-13. Actually, one game, with Davidso was played earlier than the dedication game.

THREE MOREHEAD SCHOLARS

Three members of the University of Nort Carolina football squad are Morehead Scholar They are halfbacks Wade Smith of Albemarle ar Daley Goff of Dunn, and quarterback Russell Ho lers of Durham. Morehead Scholarships are give only to well-rounded students who pass rig tests and undergo long and extensive screenir with stiff competition.

Historical Sketch

Sixty-nine years ago, North Carolina and Wake Forest played a football game during State Fair Week in Raleigh. There was no stadium of screaming fans; there were no All-Americans on display and newspaper headlines paid scant attention. For this was the first football game in the state of North Carolina, and the glory days were yet to come.

North Carolina lost that first game, three touchdowns to two, but down through the years she has more than made up for that initial failure. She has had her share of wins on the football field; her share of great All-Americans and successful coaches.

Everyone knows about the golden era of Charlie Justice, the later lean days of Carl Snavely and George Barclay, and the reconstruction period of Jim Tatum. But few know the early days of UNC football, the days now all but lost in the obscure pages of history.

North Carolina's first really great team came in 1892. Only one substitute was made during the entire season as the team won five and lost one. And in 1898, Carolina was unbeaten and untied —for the only time in history.

Down through the 20th century rolled the UNC gridiron express. In 1914, Doggie Trenchard guided the Tar Heels to a 10-1 record. Nineteen hundred and twenty-two saw the Fetzer brothers holding the coaching reins, and a 9-1 record was the result. Grady Pritchard captained that team.

The 1925 team posted a 7-1-1 mark, and in 1926, Chuck Collins took over for an eight year tenure as head coach. These were the colorful, swashbuckling years, the hell-for-leather years when anything could happen. These were the days of Johnny Branch and the "team of a hundred backs."

Carl Snavely assumed command for a two year span in 1934, and his teams went 7-1-1 and 9-1. George Barclay, Jim Tatum, Charlie Shaffer and Dick Buck were a few of Snavely's legions of talented players.

"Bear" Wolf replaced Snavely and turned out colorful teams up until the war years. George Stirnweiss, Paul Severin and Jim Lalanne are among the best remembered of Wolf's players.

Then came the dark days of World War II, and the gloom was thick in the Carolina football camp. But in 1946, Carl Snavely was back in Chapel Hill, and with him was a young man named Charlie Justice.

It was the beginning of the Justice era, and for four years, the Tar Heels lived off the fat of the land. When Justice left, he took UNC's good luck charm with him, and the years since '49 have been long ones.

Now the Tatum era is upon us, and a new page in Carolina football history is about to be written.

The University

George Washington was President of the United States when the University of North Carolina was founded. The first students were admitted in 1795. The University at Chapel Hill was the first state university in the new nation to admit students.

The University of North Carolina was authorized by the North Carolina Constitution of 1776. It was proclaimed that the state should establish "one or more state universities."

The founder of the University was a graduate of Princeton University. He was William Richardson Davie. On a "founding" trip to locate the University, Davie and a party of men stopped to rest on a wooded plateau on top of a high hill.

The tree under which they rested became known as the Davie Poplar. It still stands. One hundred feet from there they built the first structure, the Old East Building, with cornerstone laid in 1793. Joseph Caldwell, a Princeton graduate was the first President.

The University of North Carolina has been in operation continuously since 1795, except for five years after the Civil War when it was closed—1870-75.

The University at Chapel Hill became a modern University in the period between 1900 and 1930 when it emerged from the status of small liberal arts college to a major university with high rank and stature as attested by its membership in the American Association of Universities—the academic organization which now has thirty-seven members in the nation.

The present University has an enrollment of above 7,000 students, and there are approximately 1,000 faculty members.

There are 14 colleges and schools, including more than seventy departments and numerous other institutions, divisions and academic-affiliated organizations.

These include colleges of arts and sciences and a general college for students in the first two years; law school, medical school, business school journalism school, school of social work, school of education, graduate school, and schools of pharmacy, dentistry, public health, nursing, library science.

Besides the Arts and Science Schol there is further separated emphasis in an Institute of Natural Sciences, and another Institute of Humanities.

Among the institutes which provide additional teaching, research and public service for the state of North Carolina is the Institute of Government the Institute of Statistics, the Institute for Research in Social Science, the Institute of Latin American Studies, the Institute of Fisheries Research, and the Research Laboratories of Anthropology.
